The EZ start valve does just what its name implies. As the engine crankshaft turns it move the off centered wobble plate which in turn moves each pistons. The two things that can go wrong is the spring breaks and the second is the ball will get stuck to the seat. What I am trying to do by this is eliminate the gun, hose and nozzle. The pump has stainless steel plungers and an all aluminum set of valves and manifold. And most of the time it will be the high pressure outlet check valves located right below the waters seals. Therefore, because it adapts so tight many times during the installation of the pump will be pushed up and out on the seal. AR42118 discharge (#1-15)- the discharge is a safety valve that is used on pumps to "download" the rear pressure when the trigger is dropped on the gun. Usually these pumps are quite cheap to replace once they go bad and stop pumping, but if for some reason you want to try the hand to repair the drive, you can find all the parts and kits that will be necessary on the break pump for the SRMW2.2G26-EZ pump here. These steps will also work with other pumps, although there may be slight differences. EZ Starter Valve (#67-67)- the EZ Starter Valve is one of the most neglected problems of the pump. The first thing I ask a customer is if they are 100% that the key did not jump out of the pump while they were installing it. The first two numbers tell you the size of the fan and the last two tell you the size of the nozzle. This will always be a problem with the snap valve. I can't tell you how many times customers swore up and down the key was in place and postpone the pump back and when we arrive there are signs of gouge everywhere inside the motor shaft pump. 1-877-824-7763 (Smartphones Click to call) If your ready to repair the pressure you wash and save time and money order this pump online below. And 99.9% of the time they tell me he's in there. All three can be controlled fairly quickly. The speedump has a maximum rating of 3400 RPM. Order SRMW2.2G26-EZ pump from AR Pumps Online. You're not sure what size you have? If you have an adjustable nozzle there then more than likely it is too small. You will have 3 low pressure control valves and 3 high check check valves. If you have a pump that calls for a 3.0 nozzle and you use a 2.0 nozzle then it can back pressure a gallon of water which can cause you to have no pressure at all on smaller pumps. When you attach your garden hose to the pump and turn on the water, the water goes through the inlet tube #35 and into chambers in the pump where it goes through your EZ Start valve and inlet check valves. Or you just used your pressure washer yesterday or last season and went to crank it up and it doesn't work. When this happens the motor shaft will spin freely and will eat into the metal on the pump crankshaft. When you let go of the trigger on the gun that pressure has to be relieved or it would build and build until something fails and the pressurized water escapes. If damage occurred then replace the pump. Then it goes to the main chamber where the pistons are moving back and forth. There are six check valves in each pump head. These pumps have three pistons that are located inside #32 on the diagram known as a crankcase. On most nozzles there will be numbers etched into the side of the nozzle. The spring pushes against the jet and seat to hold the water back. Crankcase and KeyThe last thing to check on your pump is the crankcase and the crankshaft key. That pressurized water builds until the water is strong enough to push the jet off the seat allowing the pressurized water to re-circulate back through the pump head. And that is with old pumps and new pumps alike. This unit comes filled with oil, so ite as simple as taking off your broken pump, bolting this one on, hooking up your hoses and your pressure washing in no time flat. What to look for when you have no or low pressure By far the most calls we get is about the pump having no pressure. In the pump head #27 you have seals #28, check valves #26, an unloader #1-15, EZ start valve #67-69 and a shutter valve #37-41. When washing the pressure all the pressure produced by the pump is isIn one direction - the nozzle. So 15030 is a tip of 15 degrees (normally yellow) and the size of the orifice is 3.0. À .25045 is a 25 -degree fan (normally green) with a size of the 4.5 orifice. So, once we make sure that the questions 1 and 2 are really, you will have to remove the high pressure gun and pump tube. Fix a new pump for our customers who have just bought a new pump or a pump head and you have problems here are the steps to follow. SMW2.2G26-EZ Anvberli Reverberi Quick Note pump, this pump can also be identified as: SRWM, SRWM22G, SMW22G26, SMW2.2G or even SRWM2.2G26. It doesn't matter how he identified himself. The same 2.2 GPM at 2600 PSI that you will need for most of the pressure slices. Do you have worries? Below we have a diagram of the parts connected to know what we refer to: how the pump works briefly, here's how a pump works. If damage on the engine tree and on the engine pump have occurred, it is time to take a new pressure washer. So if it is removed we can see if the pump is building a pressure as it should or if it is something after the pump (pistol, tube, nozzle) which is causing the lack of pressure. They can have the garbage in them and do not work correctly, but the most of the time there will be damage and it will be obvious. À à € I just bought this from you and is not building a pressure ". So here it is where I start. As we have said before, there are many parts that can fail at any time. È, Water Seals (#28) à è àvelop oel usually when the water seals are bad, it is obvious, you will have water leaks from the pump between the head of the pump and the base through the holes to cry. The key concerns The start valve ez. Normally if the base is bad you will hear a ground noise or sniff smell of oil burned. à what happens is under low pressure water will easily pass through the valve but at high pressure the jet will accumulate laterally or a broken o-ring will be forced!m sorry. I'm not going to go to the city. À .daeh eht ni pu sdliub erusserp À / I'm not going to be here / failures we see in old pumps are a cracked jet, a groove on the jet or a broken o-ring that gets lodged in one of the bypass ports. It is a 3/16eAA"À piece of square steel (sometimes zinc plated) that is designed to fit snugly À Àbetween the shafts eAAA and not to move around freely. À ÀI cannot tell you how many times someone has called and we went through the entire pump trouble shooting and nothing appeared wrong eAAA and then I had an epiphany. An inlet port that is 3/4eAA"À FGH style which is your standard garden hose type of mounting. À Àif it does not shoot out farther then we need to make sure the key is in place. À ÀThen about 20-45 seconds later hot water will begin to shoot out of the thermal relief valve. À ÀAR has replaced the old shutter valve with a new style. If not you can either replace the shutter valve completely or replace the pump head. À ÀWhen the pump is building pressure or spikes many times the check valves will take the brunt of the pressure and crush. À À There is always a reason something does not work and all we need to do is find that reason. À ÀIn either case you need to replace it with an EZ start kit. It takes pressure off the pump head only while you are trying to crank the engine. If that is the case then replace the pump or the crankcase. crankcase.
